The Almighty has done great things for me and holy is his name.

my spirit rejoices in God my Saviour:
48 he has looked with favour on his lowly servant.
From this day all generations will call me blessed; Resp
- 2 49 the Almighty has done great things for me and holy is his name.
50 He has mercy on those who fear him,
from generation to generation. Resp
- 3 51 He has shown strength with his arm and has scattered the proud in their conceit, 52 casting down the mighty from their thrones
and lifting up the lowly. Resp
- 4 53 He has filled the hungry with good things and sent the rich away empty.
54 He has come to the aid of his servant Israel,
to remember his promise of mercy.
55 The promise made to our ancestors,
to Abraham and his children for ever. Resp

From the Rector

Dear Friends

The Advent season draws to a close today, tomorrow from the dark of night will shine the light that we have been preparing for. Last Sunday evening through music and scripture, poetry and prose we took a journey through Advent culminating in John's proclamation in his gospel: The true light, which enlightens everyone, was coming into the world. It was a wonderful evening, in which many found inspiration and joy. Thank you to all who took part or supported the evening in any way. As I said at the end of the evening, it was difficult not to applaud after some of the performances. But that reserve was a mark of an evening that was far more than a concert, but an act of witness. In the course of the evening we explored the Christian tradition in all its diversity, the Biblical witness, prayer, choral music, poetry and theology. It is by bringing these together that we are most able to speak about the faith that we profess in a way which engages the mind and the heart.

Last Sunday our Dedication Festival marked the beginning of a year of exploration and reflection. The Rev'd Bob Willson, engaged us with a sermon which gave us plenty of food for thought and reminded us of St Philip's history. I think at one point he described us as a thoughtful, pragmatic parish, (I haven't yet seen the text of his sermon) and perhaps this is no bad thing. We need to be thoughtfully (read prayerfully) considering our way forward and that will require of us a level of pragmatism. I hope that we can see in Sunday's celebration something of the themes that we will pursue in 2019: prayer, Bible, poetry, theology and music. In 2020 we can be more pragmatic as we consider our stewardship and outreach; 2021 we can let down our (metaphorical for some) hair!

I'd like to continue my thanks as this year draws to a close. In the clergy of this parish we have an extraordinarily diverse group of people. I do appreciate everything that they bring to the life of this community and in particular the personal support and encouragement they offer to me. Thank you to you all. Thanks are due too to the Liturgical Assistants who lead us in prayer and worship and indeed to everyone who in their own way, usually quietly and unseen, supports God's mission in this place.

There have been many high points in our year together and I look forward to many more as we continue our pilgrimage. I look forward to seeing many of you over the Christmas festivities, and to those of you who are already holidaying we pray for rest, re-creation and safe returns.

Every blessing for this Christmas season, Martin
